

Columbia Gorge AVA

- Established in 2004.
- 4,432 acres total acres / 300 acres are vineyards.
- Grapes have been grown in the Columbia Gorge for over a century
- The region consists of four counties; Skamania and Klickitat counties in Washington and Hood River and Wasco counties in Oregon.
- Bordered by Hood River, Oregon and White Salmon, Washington in the west, to Biggs Junction, Oregon and Goldendale, Washington in the east.
- Contains the river valleys of the Klickitat River and Little Klickitat River in Washington and the Hood River and Deschutes River in Oregon
- Marketed as “A World of Wine in 40 Miles”
- The Columbia Gorge features several micro climates within its borders.
- The western area is cooler ideal for the production of Chardonnay and Pinot Noir.
- The eastern area is much warmer therefore making it an ideal zone for Bordeaux and Rhone varieties as well as other varieties that enjoy a long ripening period.
- Climate: The eastern area has a continental climate and receives around 10 inches of rainfall annually. The western area is a maritime zone and receives around 36 inches of rainfall annually. Strong winds play a large role in temperature fluctuations.
- Soil: Diverse soils from floods, volcanic eruptions and landslides.
- Grape Varieties: Major varieties include Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot, Syrah, Pinot Noir, Chardonnay, Gewürztraminer, Zinfandel, Pinot Gris, Riesling, and Sangiovese. Lesser amounts of Tempranillo, Viognier, Pinot Blanc, Lemberger, and Barbera are planted as well.
